Krokidas & Bluestein LLP Employees Jennefer Lounsbury and Jean Bresnahan Honored at Unsung Heroes Awards

Boston (November 3, 2008) –Krokidas & Bluestein LLP today announced that Jennefer Lounsbury and Jean Bresnahan, employees at the Boston-based law firm – were recently honored at the Massachusetts Lawyer's Weekly 4th Annual Unsung Heroes Awards. The Unsung Heroes Awards recognize staff members of law firms and in-house corporate legal departments whose hard work and dedication goes largely unnoticed. Jennefer Lounsbury, Krokidas & Bluestein's billing coordinator, won the Unsung Heroes award in the Accounting category. Jean Bresnahan received a nomination in the Secretary category.

Lounsbury, a resident of Brockton, Mass., has worked at Krokidas & Bluestein for 11 years. In addition to her primary role in accounting, she wears many hats at the firm: she oversees the firm's document management efforts; she fills in at reception; she meets with vendors to evaluate service proposals; she plans staff ice cream parties; she manages docket software; and she orders periodicals for the library. "I was very excited to win this award," said Lounsbury. "It's a great feeling being recognized for the work that I do at Krokidas & Bluestein."

Bresnahan has worked as a secretary for Maria Krokidas for 25 years. According to Krokidas: "Jean doesn't shy away from taking on firm-wide responsibilities. She deals beautifully with clients and third parties and is always able to keep things in control with her calm demeanor." Bresnahan is a Quincy, Mass. resident. "I was very surprised and thrilled to receive this nomination from Maria Krokidas," said Bresnahan. "It was an honor to be considered for this prestigious award."
